External Research Grants

Current

National Institutes of Health (NICHD) R21. Principal Investigator (with Shelley Clark, McGill University, and Eliya Zulu, African Population and Health Research Center). “Using Relationship Calendars to Improve Sexual Behavior Data among Kenyan Couples.” (9/12/2006-8/31/2009), $266,053.

This project aims to improve methods of data collection for sexual behavior among youth and their romantic and sexual partners in Kisumu, Kenya. Using a life course approach, the project will construct retrospective relationship histories for 1300 young females and males and interview these respondents’ marital and nonmarital sexual partners to create a unique matched partner sample. Fieldwork spring and summer 2007.

Pending

National Institutes of Health (NICHD) R01. Co-Principal Investigator (Principal Investigator: Kaivan Munshi, with Kenneth Mayer, Brown Medical School and collaborators from the Tuberculosis Research Center and the Christian Medical College, India). “Using Community Participation to Improve the Health System in South India.” (2009-2014) $2.5 million. Resubmission 11/2008. Review score: 11.4 percentile.

This interdisciplinary project investigates where and why community participation can be successful in the treatment of tuberculosis in rural India. In a population of one million, a randomized control trial will be conducted to assess the performance of community members as volunteer DOT (directly observed treatment) providers. Preliminary fieldwork was undertaken January 2007 and July-August 2008.
